

Why we have these forms

Cityread London and our partner libraries are committed to equality of opportunity, which means that we work hard to support people from the diverse communities we serve.

To help us find out if we are attracting people from all backgrounds, we need to ask you a little about yourself.

We only use this information for statistical purposes. We won't ask you to include your name or use the information in a way that allows individuals to be identified.

Thank you for helping us.
